Preuss Model United Nations announcement to develop "Good Global Citizens": Columbus Reaches the New World

Hundreds of years ago today, an Italian explorer named Christopher Columbus set foot on a Bahamian Island, believing he had reached East Asia. Unknowingly, however, Columbus had "discovered" an entirely new continent previously unknown and forgotten to the people living in the Afro-Eurasian continents. This transformative event spurred European exploration and colonization of the world - a development that has left a lasting impact that can still be seen and felt today. (Boquiren 10/12)
