APRIL IS NATIONAL POETRY MONTH! Here is a poem excerpt in the form of a fairy tale.

ONCE UPON A TIME THERE WAS A MAN

by Mac

Hammond

Once upon a time there was, there was a man
Who lived inside me wearing this cold armor,
The kind of knight of whom the ladies could be proud
And send with favors through unlikely forests
To fight infidels and other knights and ordinary dragons.
Once upon a time he galloped over deep green moats
On bridges princes had let down in friendship
And sat at board the honored guest of kings
Talking like a man who knew the world by heart...
Once upon a time, expecting no adventure
In the forest everybody knows, at midnight,
He saw a mountain rise beneath the moon.
An incredible beast? With an eye of fire?
He silently dismounted, drew his famous sword
And hid behind the heavy trees and shrubs to see
If what he thought he saw was real. He fled
And the giant eye of the moon pursues him still.
