celebrating hispanic/latinx heritage month

In a career that has spanned more than half a century, ballerina Lupe Serrano has enjoyed a life studded with moments worthy of red rose-showered standing ovations. By the sheer power of her will, she rose from a second-rate dance school in Chile to become the first Hispanic principal dancer at the prestigious American Ballet Theatre. On stages world-wide—Europe, the Soviet Union, South America—she moved audiences to near-frenzies with her glowing stage presence and flawless technique. Lupe Serrano was born on December 7, 1930, in Santiago, Chile. At the age of eighteen, Serrano embarked upon a Central American tour with Alicia Alonso, a Cuban prima ballerina and founder of the Ballet Nacional de Cuba. Serrano went on to join the Ballet Folklorico de Mexico, a Mexican-government sponsored troupe that celebrated the varied cultures of Mexico through their ethnic dances. With this company her fame in Mexico continued to rise. She eventually made it to New York, where she would spend the rest of her ballet career with the American Ballet Theatre for almost two decades, eventually rising to the top position of prima ballerina.

Happy Hispanic Heritage Month

In honor of celebrating Hispanic Heritage Month Spanish Honor Society will be hosting a trivia game activity each Friday! Fill out the quiz for a prize!
