HOLIDAY BREAK
November 23-27, 2015
No School*

Dear Parents,
As we approach the end of the second mid-semester on November 13, Preuss students are motivated and focused on learning. Progress reports will be distributed through Advisory classes on November 18 & 19. November 14th, the Robotics club will be hosting the FLL tournament here on campus. They will host teams from all over San Diego County and families and friends are encouraged to observe the tournament. It is a fun event that showcases our students' robotics talents.
We are proud to announce that this year UC San Diego honored two Preuss School founders. Dr. Cecil Lytle and Dr. Hugh "Bud" Mehan. They received the UC San Diego Revelle Medal which is the highest award given by the Chancellor to a current or former UC San Diego faculty member. Congratulations to both gentlemen and our thanks for all of their dedication, and the hard work they have given to The Preuss School UCSD.

News From Scott Barton Cont'd

This is our third year partnering with Computers 2 San Diego Kids (C2SDK). We want to begin by thanking C2SDK for such a beneficial partnership for Preuss families, and Board Member Matt Weil for inviting C2SDK to Preuss. Families have an opportunity to purchase refurbished computers at a discounted price right here at school. The computers will be picked up by parents on Saturday, January 30 before the Science Festival begins at 11:00am. A computer in the home is so important to a student's learning. Internet through Cox Cable is also available at a reduced rate. The deadline to place orders is January 7, 2016. Computers will be available for purchase on Saturday, January 30. Parents may purchase the desktop computers with CRT monitor for $50.00 or a desktop computer with an LCD Monitor for $80.00. Purchases are cash or money order only.

The Admissions application for the 2016-217 school year is now available in the front office and online. At this time 1,145 applications have been distributed to families and schools throughout the county. The Admissions open house was Saturday, November 7, for families who are interested in attending Preuss. The Admissions application deadline is Friday, December 18, 2015 at 4:00pm and the lottery will be held on Tuesday, February 9, 2016. This year Preuss seniors are participating in Admissions outreach in their communities with Admissions Coordinator Ms. Honeycutt. If you would like to participate in an outreach presentation in your community please contact Addie Honeycutt at 858-822-0408.

Attendance is critical to a student's educational success. Parents play a vital role in their student's academic success by helping them develop the habit of consistent attendance. To help better monitor students' attendance we are using the automated system EDULINK. The notification system sends a phone message to families' primary phone number. The system keeps parents informed about their student's attendance. Please phone the school by 9:00am if your child will be absent. If a parent needs to discuss their student's attendance we ask they call Mrs. Villanueva at 858-822-3011.

Homecoming will be Thursday, December 17, 2015. Preuss Alumni will be on campus for lunch. Alumni will visit Advisory classes to share their Preuss and College experiences with current students. After school the Girls Basketball team will play at 3:30pm, and the Boys Basketball team will play at 6:00pm. Both games will be held at the Rimac Arena on the UC San Diego campus. We are looking forward to a day of inspiration for the current Preuss students. There will be buses to transport High School students home at the completion of the boys' basketball game. Middle School students may not stay after school and must take the 4pm bus home. High School students who do not attend the homecoming activities must also take the 4pm bus. There will not be a 5:30pm late bus.

This year we have started an Astronomy program which has been made possible by the Terry Arnold Rising Star program. This program consists of classroom instruction and field trips to the Tierra del Sol observatory near Campo hosted by Michael VanderVorst. The observations are coordinated with students' classroom curriculum. Students will visit the observatory November 13, and again in December. We are very excited about this program and our partnership with the observatory.

The months of November and December are full of vacation days away from school. I want to take a moment to remind students and parents that while we will have breaks these next two months, learning is still our first priority. Students must stay focused in the midst of all of the excitement of the coming breaks. School will not be in session November 23-27, 2015, and December 21, 2015 - January 1, 2016. Please do not extend your vacations as students are expected to be in school when Preuss is in session. Enjoy your time off.

Sincerely,
Scott Barton

WHISPERS FROM THE LIBRARY AND MEDIA CENTER

We featured Banned Books Week (September 27 – October 3, 2015) with a mini-book jacket contest. The mini-book jacket had to represent a banned book, why it was banned and an about-the-author section. Our winners were 11th grader Natalie Ruybal, 11th grader Christina Le and 11th grader Maricruz Gonzalez. They each earned a $10.00 gift certificate to Barnes and Noble or a choice of a book.

Our Scholastic Book Fair was held November 2nd through November 7th. We took in just about $2000. The proceeds will be used to purchase new books for our library and for the Senior Awards at the end of the school year. Thanks to our Scholastic Crew and parents who helped run our fair. We couldn't have done it without you.

A Few Reminders

1. Students have access to online eBooks. On the library page of the Preuss School website your student can click Overdrive to access these eBooks. The site will walk you through downloading the correct app for your device. All the students need is their student ID # on their planner or picture ID card.
2. The library has a great resource for researching online. Please visit the DCP on the library webpage of the Preuss School website. All material has been reviewed by experts in their field and is reliable information. You can use this resource for every subject matter. There are even eBooks, online magazines, and tutoring sites for homework.

Please remember that we send out library notices at the beginning of each month through advisory classes. If your child has late textbooks or fines over $5.00 they are not allowed to participate in any extra-curricular activities. This includes athletics, after school clubs and school-sponsored social events. Please encourage your student to bring in any late textbooks or to begin paying off their account a little bit at a time. Any student not able to pay may volunteer hours in the library to clear their account.

Happy Reading! Ms. Nance and Ms. Gonzalez

Marsha Greco, Social Studies Teacher, Attends 2015 Teacher Institute on Art of the Renaissance at The National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C.

MARSHA GRECO

Preuss School Social Studies Teacher

Marsha Greco, an educator at The Preuss School UCSD in La Jolla, CA was selected as one of only 51 participants of the 2015 National Gallery of Art Teacher Institute on Art of the Renaissance held in Washington, D.C., in July and August of 2015. The six-day seminar brought together teachers of art, English, history, math, and related subjects from 25 states. The program emphasized the social and cultural context of Renaissance art in Italy and Northern countries between the 14th and 16th centuries. The term Renaissance, meaning “rebirth,” refers to the humanistic revival of classical culture and learning with its underlying belief in the creative potential of humankind. Participants studied works by leading Renaissance artists as represented in the Gallery’s permanent collection, including the painters Leonardo da Vinci, Raphael, Titian, Jan van Eyck, and Rogier van der Weyden. Participants learned about the development of oil-painting techniques, the role of prints in disseminating new ideas, using works of art as primary resources in classroom instruction, incorporating art into interdisciplinary teaching, and strengthening students’ visual literacy.

Through lectures, gallery talks, and hands-on activities, participants analyzed Renaissance artworks and focused on interdisciplinary teaching strategies. Activities were designed to meet teachers’ personal and professional enrichment needs. A demonstration of Venetian painting techniques and a site visit to a printmaker’s studio at Georgetown University rounded out the Institute’s course of study.

Teacher Institute 2015

For more than 25 years the Gallery’s Teacher Institute has offered educators the opportunity for intellectual renewal and professional exchange with colleagues in a museum setting. To date, approximately 2,600 teachers have participated in the program. To learn more about the Teacher Institute, visit www.nga.gov/teacherinstitute

UCSD Healthy Study Niñas Saludables

Ms. Lisa Hawk, Director from Preuss Exercise & Health Science Department and Mayra Cano from UCSD Department of Family Medicine and Public Health invite parents and students to participate in a Physical Activity Program, Niñas Saludables.

Niñas Saludables is a web-based study designed to help Latina adolescents become more physically active. Participants will come to UCSD with their mothers for an orientation and an initial visit, and then they will receive physical activity materials through a web page for 12 weeks. Girls can earn up to $80 for participating. Participants should be between 12 and 19 years old, generally be in good health (no chronic conditions that might make exercise difficult or unsafe), should not currently be physically active (exercise for less than an 90 minutes per week), and should have regular internet access.

I look forward to hearing from you!

We have all heard the expression “you are what you eat.” And for the most part there is truth to that statement, but something is missing. Michael Pollan, in his book “In Defense of Food” takes the expression one step further. He writes, “you are what you eat eats.” Let’s notice the extra word at the end and why it is significant.

Making sure we eat healthy is something we all aspire to do. Some of us do it a bit more often than others, but that’s okay. The question is: how many of us take the time, while we are trying to eat healthy, to know where our food comes from and how it was grown? So let’s answer a question with another question: is all food created equal? Before I answer this lets review what “food” is. “Food,” as defined by Pollan, is anything we eat that is grown in nature. Examples of this would be fruits, vegetables, and eggs. We are not talking about food-like substances or processed food. Getting back to the second question: the simple answer is, NO, not all food is created equal. I will use a tomato to make my point.

Multiple-choice question: Where would you want to get your tomato from?

1. Large-Chain grocery store – Vons or Ralphs
2. Small-Chain grocery store – Sprouts or Jimbo’s
3. Farmers Market
4. Your own garden

If you picked option 3 or 4 you are on the right track. Here is why options 1 and 2 are not as good as 3 and 4. Large-Chain grocery stores need to provide large quantities of produce to many, many stores. Therefore, the tomatoes Ralphs buys at wholesale prices to sell to you come from large-scale farms. These farms tend to use genetically modified seeds to grow the tomatoes and chemical pesticides to protect the crops during the growing cycle.

The tomatoes are then picked before they are ripe to survive the trip to Ralphs. On top of this, the soil in which the tomatoes are grown is lacking in proper nutrients because the farm overuses the land. The large-scale farms have one objective; grow the tomatoes as fast as possible and get them to Ralphs as quickly as possible.

Small-Chain groceries might provide a little better product because of where the tomatoes were grown and if the farm used “organic standards” while growing.

Let’s contrast this with a farmers market. The tomato will be grown at a local farm. It will be picked at the height of its ripeness and presented to you at the peak of its goodness. The local farm, if they use “organic standards,” will use no genetically modified seeds and very little or natural pesticides. The local farm will have better soil to grow the tomatoes because the farmer rotates crops, which adds more nutrients to the soil. And the farmer may even rest plots of land to enhance the density of nutrients in the soil. Lastly, the local farm will grow seasonally, which means not all produce will be available all-year-round, strawberries in the summer and squash in the winter. Seasonal growing took place for thousands of years before large-scale farms starting popping up.

Lastly, and if possible, your own garden can be everything a local farm provides, but without the 30-mile trip from Vista.

The tomato you eat is dependent on the farming practices of the farmer to reach its full potential. Therefore, next time you go buy fresh produce find out where it came from and how it was grown.

Go to this website to find where a farmers market may be close to you:

Hello Preuss Family,

I am excited to share that this year I have started parenting classes for parents interested in learning effective skills that will help strengthen the parent and child relationship. Classes are held once a month on Saturday after the PTA meeting (11am-12:30) in the library. The next classes I will be covering are:

November 7th-Stress busters
 December 12th-Communication/Problem Solving
 January 23rd- Positive parenting
 May 21st- Safe Children

In addition to the parenting classes I have begun the stress management curriculum with 9th and 11th graders on Fridays during advisory (1:30) in the library. I am always excited to see new faces at either of these classes so please do not be afraid to attend and learn some new skills and/or knowledge.

On Thursday, November 12th The Preuss School will be hosting an immigration info session with immigration lawyer Laura Talamantes and Tu Alcance Inc. at the South Chula Vista Library (389 Orange Ave. Chula Vista). The info session will begin at 7:00pm and will provide new information regarding immigration law and other help and assistance for undocumented families. This is a public event so anyone you know is encouraged to attend.

Holiday reminder: Families as the holidays approach remember 211 has holiday assistance programs for food and toys as needed. Some require a sign up and some are first come, first serve. Please look into this information by calling 211 or via internet at www.211sandiego.org

Always remember you can contact me for any other concerns or support needed for students and/or your family. The best way to contact me is through email: a6esquivel@ucsd.edu or phone: 858-822-1484. Amanda Esquivel

Healthy Ideas From Your School Nurse, Chris Richter

Healthy role modeling for children

Thanks for your involvement in your child's education. Your continued support is very important to your child's present and future success. Even though your child is growing and maturing more each day your guidance and support is more important than ever. Children learn a great deal from their parents so it's extra important to live each day demonstrating a good example to our developing children. Here are some tips on ways to be a healthy role model as it relates to healthy eating and activity (tips provided by the nutrition education series from the USDA center for nutrition):

- 1) Show by example by eating vegetables, fruits and whole grains at meals and as snacks.
- 2) Go food shopping with your children Have a discussion about where vegetables, fruits, grains, dairy and protein foods come from. Let your children make healthy choices. Choose healthy holiday dishes with emphasis on vegetables and fruit.
- 3) Get creative in the kitchen, encourage your child to create healthy new snacks and home recipes. Make your own trail mixes from dry whole grain and low sugar cereal and dried fruit.
- 4) Offer the same foods for everyone, stop being a "short order cook".
- 5) Reward with attention not food, do not offer sweets as rewards. Show your love and comfort your children with hugs, kisses.
- 6) Focus on each other at the dinner table, turn off the TV, silence the phone. Make meal time enjoyable and a time to communicate in a "stress free" manner.
- 7) Listen to your child. If the child is hungry and it's not time for a scheduled meal, offer a small healthy snack. At dinner offer choices of vegetables i.e. do you want broccoli or cauliflower for dinner instead of do you want broccoli.
- 8) Limit screen time to less than 2 hr/day (includes TV, phone & computer games) No "screen time" under the age of 2.
- 9) Encourage fun physical activity for the whole family. Make physical activity a regular part of the day. Walk/run with your child instead of just watching. Set as an example by being physically active and using safety gear such as bicycle helmets.

Holiday breaks are a good time for doctor appointments:

Get your child's physical completed, update suggested and required vaccines. A reminder for our 6th graders, a Tdap booster is required for 7th grade entry. If you haven't done so already, have your child get the Tdap booster. If you would like the booster done at school please contact the school nurse @858-822-2291. Check out the website www.shots-for-school.org for more information on suggested and required immunizations.

For information on free children's physicals call CHDP @ 1-800-675-2229.

Prevention of illness:

The changing seasons also signal the beginning of the cold and flu season. By staying healthy we don't lose time from work and from school, thereby making everyone more successful. Every day preventive actions can help fight germs and prevent catching colds and the dreaded flu.

According to the CDC, the following are some ways to prevent the spread of germs:

1. Good hand hygiene by hand washing with soap and water after coughing and sneezing.
2. Covering your mouth and nose with a tissue when you cough or sneeze
3. Avoiding touching your eyes, nose and mouth whenever possible. Germs spread this way.
4. Stay home if you or your child are sick with a fever for at least 24 hours after there are no longer signs of a fever.
5. When sick, limit contact with others to prevent the spread of illness.
6. Try to avoid close contact with sick people
7. Get immunized each year for seasonal flu.

Studio Static: What's new in the studio?

A Note from Tamima Noorzay, Fine Arts Teacher

AP Art History students recently returned from a fantastic day at the Museum of Man where they could experience the Mayan, Egyptian and Kumeyaay artifacts first hand. Students looked for evidence of Greek and Roman influences in the layout and architecture of Balboa Park and enjoyed representing Preuss to the larger community.

The momentum in the Preuss Studio is contagious! Studio I students have created lifelike graphite portraits and are excited to start exploring the world of color through different types of painting from watercolors to acrylics. Studio II students also explored the genre of portraiture, taking their own subject photographs, creating unique compositions, set a mood and focused on rendering drapery. Studio II students layered their portraits with iconography to create deeper meaning and personal connection to their work. You can view some of these portraits and other original works of art our March 10, 2015 Festival of the Arts. This event will include a gallery show, photography contest, runway event, musical performances and theatrical snippets. There are even rumors of a poetry slam! Fashion Club, Art Club and INSPIRE will be having one of a kind items, created by students for sale. This event is not to be missed, so stay tuned for more information.

Both Art club and Fashion Club are well into their calendar year. Art Club is set to start an undersea mural around the office Hydration Station. Next, the members will be organizing the March 10th Festival of the Arts, to be followed up by creating staging for the theatrical performances and Shakespeare Festival. Fashion club is busy pitching designs, staging and makeup ideas with a Pop Art theme for their upcoming runway show at the March 10th Festival. Fashion Club is also hosting guest speakers in order to gain a deeper understanding of career paths in the fashion industry. The members of Art and Fashion club recently collaborated on a recycle project where they created hats out of newspapers and decorated them. It was wildly successful and we had standing room only!

Evidence that our artist community is thriving: Preuss has added AP Studio Art to class offerings! We have an incredibly insightful and talented group of juniors and senior who are compiling a 24-piece portfolio for College Board submission in May!
